

Welcome to Marsala

2023

Welcome to every tourist visiting western Sicily and to the ones who wants to stop by the westest area of the island.

(Capo Lilybeo)

A photograph of several pink flamingos wading in shallow blue water. The flamingos are scattered across the frame, some standing and others wading. The water is a deep blue, and there are some small, dark, rocky patches visible in the foreground and middle ground. The background shows a vast expanse of water under a clear sky. A white text overlay is centered in the image, reading: "The Stagnone area is a Natural Reserve since 1984. Migratory birds like Flamingos can be seen here, especially in Autumn and Spring." The text is in a white, cursive-style font.

The Stagnone area is a Natural Reserve since 1984. Migratory birds like Flamingos can be seen here, especially in Autumn and Spring.

Marsala has a lot to offer to tourists, its lush countryside give life to excellent and renowned wines, olive oil, fresh and other tasty produce.

Historical wineries like Donnafugata, Pellegrino and Florio offer tour and tasting. The Florio winery was founded by the most famous, elegant and rich Sicilian family protagonist of the Belle Epoque.

A sunset over a body of water. The sky is a mix of orange, yellow, and light blue. A small, dark silhouette of a kite is visible in the sky on the right side. The water in the foreground is dark with small, white-capped waves.

Kitesurfing is the most popular sport practiced in the Stagnone.

The calm shallow water and constant wind make it perfect for beginners and advanced kites.

A large, leafy tree with a thick, gnarled trunk stands in the center of a paved city square. In the background, a multi-tiered fountain with several water jets is visible. The scene is set in a city center with buildings and other trees in the distance.

The city centre is small and mostly closed to car traffic.

With its many turistic
attractions, museums, pubs,
restaurants and shops
Marsala is a small jewel not to be missed.

Enjoy Marsala and its many treasures like the Chiesa Madre, the Quartiere Spagnolo, the old market and the Art Gallery within Convento del
Carmine.

Mothia is one of the few Phoenicians archeological sites still remaning in the Mediterranean. Marsala museums hold Phoenicians artefacts as well as ancient Roman relics and ancient Greek art.

Many reminders of the heroes, who made Italy one united country in 1861, can
Museum and through the whole city.

A scenic view of a beach with fine sand and crystal clear water under a blue sky. The text is overlaid on the image in a white, cursive font.

Beaches with fine sand and crystal clear water
lie in the southern area of the city, while on the northern side the coast has both sand and rocky platforms allowing access to the sea.

An aerial photograph of the ocean with white-capped waves breaking over a deep blue-green sea. The perspective is from directly above, showing the intricate patterns of the water's surface.

An aerial photograph of a person parasailing over a vast expanse of turquoise water. The person is suspended in the air, leaving a long, white, foamy wake behind them. The water's surface is textured with small waves and ripples. The overall color palette is dominated by various shades of blue and green, with the white wake providing a sharp contrast.
